As a professor of credit management and president of PSCFM, I personally sign the certification.

I want you to make good today the online live Zoom room class seat that has long been reserved for you. I can assure you that you will enjoy this programme, you will get refreshed academically... reminding you of the good old days of learning, but this time as an executive student doing self-assessment examination. Come on, lets meet again in the class where you will interact with other equally top notch personalities.

As a very vigorous, enterprising and progressive person; not minding that you are already a distinguished, eminent personality in your own right, attending the Mandatory Credit Management Academic Improvement Programme (MCMAIP) of the Institute of Credit Administration (ICA) is without any iota of exaggeration, the something at the same level as attending a foreign executive programme designed to keep you abreast with trends in business, economy and ultimately, enterprises risk management. As an agile leader, your organization needs you to drive its transformation successfully.

I urge you to be opened to big thinking that knows no bounds. From MCMAIP programme, expect more, participate more, and impact others.

In developing our learning modules for the study of credit management and financial analysis, we did not work alone; we designed the learning modules in full participation of four foreign specialist professors in the field of credit management and financial modeling – 3 from UK and 1 from Nigeria. A number of corporate organizations actively participated in the designing as well as delivery of the learning solutions tailored to corporate needs, their context and challenges. You are pretty much at home in best practices with PSCFM programme.

ICA's MCMAIP conduction has been outsourced to the Postgraduate School of Credit & Financial Management (PSCFM) in view of its robust resources and internationalization of its specialist taught programmes in credit management and financial analysis.

MCMAIP Programme was ranked by the ICA's Abuja members' Gala Night on November 10th, 2021 in Abuja as the most influential and a relevant plan for busy, professional and entrepreneurs for the study of Credit Management and Financial analysis post-ICA qualification for all its members.
